process illustrating the different state of the sprayed substance at different distances from the electrospray capillary tip. Figure 1B is an enlarged partial of Fig. 1A view showing that microdroplets of solution predominate in the wet zone, and dry clusters and ions predominate in the dry zone.--

Please replace the paragraph beginning at page 8, line 9, with the following rewritten paragraph:

GA
--Figure 9A schematically shows the mass fabrication of multicomponent matrices by using a means for shifting the position of the mask relative to the substrate after each of a series of substances are electrodeposited onto a substrate through the holes in the mask. Figure 9B shows an enlarged partial view of Fig. 9A.--
